

HUMOUR

LEO PETTIPAS: NOT JUST ANOTHER PRETTY FACE

Anonymous

Manitoba Archaeological Society

Just about everyone in the Manitoba archaeological community has at least heard of, if not met, Leo Pettipas. Over the past 45 years or so, Leo has spilled a great deal of ink writing about regional archaeology and its outcomes. As one who has spent much time thinking about ancient projectile points, he can be regarded as a true-blue “spearhead.”

What most people don't realize about Leo is his deep affection for his home neighbourhood of south Winnipeg. In that regard, he has been known to go out of his way to enhance the local environment and keep it green (and white). Here's a picture of Leo cheerfully doing his civic duty – truly, an inspiration to us all in so many ways.

Keep up the good work, Leo.

*****